Textile Sourcing Fair

Buyers praise innovation new products

Trade visitors appreciated the wide variety of apparel fabrics on display at TEXINDIA, here the focus was on new products and innovation.

TEXINDIA has emerged as a vital sourcing link in the value chain for apparel brands and apparel exporters. With an increasing number of companies getting into manufacturing of woven garments, the show will continue to strengthen and provide more options in terms of products and suppliers.

Mr. SATYANANDA T. C.
CEO,
Soma International,
Bangalore

"We are marketing and sourcing consultants in knit and woven garments and clothing to buyers in USA and Canada. This is a fantastic show. I cannot understand why people spend so much of time and money and go to places like China to scout for fabrics and accessories when you can find them all and much more here under one roof. I feel really good about this show. The requirement overseas is different from the requirements over here. Sometimes there is a resistance to new innovations. We have not been trained to learn these things, like anti-microbial, anti-bacterial, fabrics etc., which are in demand in other countries. The show helped me a lot. I found a manufacturer of 100 - 125gsm micro fleece fabrics and it helped me a lot."

Mr. PRADEEP B.
CEO,
Landmark Kidwear, Tirupur

"I was able to gather a lot of useful information. The linen fabrics on display were excellent."

Mr. PRABHU DAMODHARAN
Director,
FuturGen, Tirupur

"We are a buying house representing companies in Bangladesh, Hong Kong, Canada, USA, Poland, Spain, etc. I got a good idea about the new trends in fabrics at this show. There were multiple options and there were no price contradictions. Quite an impressive show to know about the updates in the industry. Keep it up. It's awesome!"

Mr. B. ANDREWS
Wing Commander, Indian Air Force,

"A well conducted Expo. The Air Force has an apparel unit at Sulur near Coimbatore. The show turned out to be much better than my expectations."

Ms. AURELIA ESIRI

Mr. JAVEED A.

"Yes, the show overall was okay. I could make a few new contacts in fabrics. But I feel there needs to be more suppliers to cater to exporters."
